

Broccoli

FOR RETAIL

Broccoli is a relative of cabbage, Brussels sprouts and cauliflower and this cruciferous vegetable has such a stellar nutrition profile that it is often included on lists of "Superfoods." Its dark green color and flower-like crowns enhance a variety of cuisines and preparation formats, whether adding crunch and color shaved into cold salads or steamed as it balances the spiciness of hot Asian dishes. Broccoli's year round availability is thanks to multiple growing regions, making it incredibly versatile for shopper to use in every season.

Selecting Broccoli

Choose Broccoli with firm stalks, tight florets, and crisp green leaves. Crowns should be compact. Color should be medium to dark green, no yellowed or flowering florets.

Storage & Handling

For maximum shelf life and freshness, store lettuce in 34-36 degree F refrigeration. Keep lettuce away from drafts to prevent dehydration. Store lettuce away from ethylene- producing fruits and ripening rooms. Follow good rotation practices; first shipments received should be used or displayed first.
